

POST TEST FOR SELF-ADMINISTRATION OF MEDICATIONS

Question: True or False?	Answer
1. The Resident has a right to self-administer medications if deemed clinically appropriate by the interdisciplinary team.
2. Once the interdisciplinary team gives the okay for the resident to self-administer medications, the nurse will not have responsibilities for the resident’s medications.
3. Residents can self-administer some of their medications and the nurse will administer some of the medications.
4. If a resident leaves the locked box open, the nurse can take the medications away from the resident.
5. If a resident indicates to the nurse that they are refusing one of the medications the resident will no longer be able to self-administer medications.
