POST TEST - RESIDENT MOOD AND BEHAVIOR

Question: True or False?	Answer
1. Behavioral health encompasses a resident’s whole emotional and mental well-being that even may include the prevention and treatment of mental and substance use disorders.
2. When a resident presents as tearful, this is what is known as a delusion.
3. The PHQ-9© is a new medication to treat behaviors.
4. Documentation of resident behaviors and effectiveness of approaches is required.
5. If the behavior documentation is incomplete, the pharmacy consultant may give recommendations to physicians for medication changes that are based on inadequate information and could result in poor resident outcomes.
